Captive Practice Group

Introducing the Captive Practice Group

Chartis UK is pleased to announce the establishment of a Captive Practice Group. The Practice Group will bring together the significant captive expertise within Chartis UK to ensure that the best possible services and solutions can be provided to our clients that operate captives.

Key Objectives:

- Provide our clients with a point of contact for any captive related issue that they wish to discuss.
- Ensure that the experts within Chartis UK are addressing topical captive related issues and providing a viewpoint on those issues for clients, brokers and captive managers e.g. the potential impact of Solvency II on captives.
- Ensure that our captive related solutions and services are kept up to date and market leading for the benefit of our clients.

Group Structure:

The Captive Practice Group is chaired by Matthew Latham who is also Regional Head of Risk Finance and will comprise of representatives from the Risk Management team, which specialises in captive fronting and the issuance of multi-national programmes, the Risk Finance team, which underwrites non-traditional captive reinsurance and loss portfolio transfers, the underwriting teams and captive experts in specialist functions such as legal, accounting, tax and actuarial.

In addition Chartis Insurance Management Services in Dublin will have a representative in the Practice Group bringing their valuable insight of the type of issues that concern their captive clients.

Our Expertise:

Chartis UK manage all types of captive programmes for general insurance classes and handle over a billion dollars of captive premium per annum. The Group's involvement with captives stretches back 65 years and we are an acknowledged market leader in the field. We have a dedicated team providing captive fronting services and programme structuring, which is able to utilise the Chartis global network. We also offer captive reinsurance programmes, including non-traditional captive reinsurance solutions.
